Report of State Tax Commission 1914

From 1904 to 1914 the annual increase in taxes was:

1904	$34,459.91
1906	115,468.39
1908	76,612.89
1910	787,565.31
1912	296,216.85
1913	627,603.43

The average yearly increase was $336,561.85. It is surely pertinent to consider how long the little state of New Hampshire, almost stationary in wealth, can sustain a tax already burdensome and increasing at the rate of practically half a million dollars a year without crippling her industries and impoverishing her people.

Plainly it is a condition not calculated to attract capital from without the state or to encourage business within the state.

In 1903 there were assessed $12.88 in taxes for each man, woman and child in the state. Five years later there were assessed $14.75 for each individual, and in five years more $20.09. Those who occupy, use or consume property no matter who owns it, are those who in the last analysis pay most, if not all, of the taxes thereon. If the wage earner or the man of limited means understood he was in reality paying something like 100.00 a year in state and municipal and half as much more in federal taxes for the government of himself, his wife and three children his influence and his vote would more frequently make for economy in appropriations and expenditures than heretofore.

LIBRARY TRUSTEES' REPORT

The Trustees of the Weeks Public Library respectfully submit to the town their eighteenth annual report

During the year 182 books have been added to the library, 148 by purchase and 34 by gift. They include 124 volumes of fiction and 58 volumes of history, biography etc.

An average of 42 books has been taken out each library day, the smallest number going out on any one day, 10, owing to a severe storm. The library has been open during the usual hours with the exception of one evening which was very stormy.

Since our last report the appearance of the library has been much improved by the installation of electric lights which has reduced the danger from fire and increased the use of the library during the evening hours. They are greatly appreciated by the patrons.

Many interesting and timely books have been added to the library during the year. They are as follows;

GENERAL LITERATURE

Across Patagonia, Dixie (gift)
Arabian nights
Beauty of wisdom, DeNormandie (gift)
Birth of the nation, Pryor
Boy scouts hike work Cave

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the Greenland School Board:—

The undersigned respectfully submits his first annual report as your Superintendent. It is obvious that the statistical tables presented deal with facts concerning the work of my predecessor in your school rooms. It would be unfair for me to make deductions or draw any inferences from these figures since I am unable to determine the exact conditions under which they were obtained. I wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge the excellent state in which I found the records of the office preserved and to say that this feature of the work has been of great benefit to me in adjusting myself to the work of the office.

The attendance of the fall term would have been excellent but for a few cases of truancy which have bothered with more or less regularity up to the present writing. The writer has issued warnings and earnestly hopes that these together with a proper public sentiment aroused will be productive of a change for the better without the notoriety of a public prosecution. No pupil is required to walk an unreasonable distance. The cases alluded to are due to lack of interest on the part of parents in school work and possibly to carelessness as to the welfare of their children.

Nearly one third of the appropriation for books and supplies was expended last spring. Some of the arithmetics in the intermediate school were in bad shape and new ones were filled in to make the set complete. Some new reading matter was purchased in small quantities for the grades in general. A sufficient amount of supplies was purchased to carry the school through the financial year. We need a larger appropriation for books in order to do the work of the character which your Supervisor is accustomed to do in the schoolroom. More reading matter is needed. To meet this need an increase of fifty dollars is suggested in the book and supply account.

Good progress is being made in the music department which is under the direction of Miss Lucy M. Hoyt.

The school furniture is not of the right type to do the work required in our schools of today. The desks at the primary school are too high for the seats, which makes it uncomfortable for the children to assume the correct position in writing. We cannot expect to secure proper results under these conditions, altho the teacher is capable of producing them.

Medical inspection of the pupils and teachers of the town has amply justified itself. Many of the defects which retard the progress of the pupils in school are physical in character and may be remedied by the parents following the advice of the school physician.

In his report, Dr. McLachlan says:

"I have examined sixty-three children, in all. There were thirty showing defective teeth, twenty-six with enlarged tonsils and eight showing evidence of adenoids. The number showing defective teeth and enlarged tonsils is certainly too large and it would, no doubt, be to the advantage of these pupils as well as a benefit to the general health of the schools if these conditions were remedied.

The general sanitary conditions of yards and surroundings is good, also of the school buildings except the light and ventilation system, which should be improved. . . . D. C. McLachlan, M. D."

Sewing and manual training have already been adopted in two of the towns of this district. The cost of maintenance of such courses after paying for the equipment amounts to but a few dollars per year, and can be carried on by the teacher in charge. Courses like these develop coordination in the nervous centers which are valuable from a practical point of view as well as of educative value. In this way the child has an outlet for his motor constructive instinct, and gains a first hand knowledge of what constitutes a fair product of his labor and how it should be done. Cooking also might be taught provided we can obtain the right conditions for its introduction.

Many attempts have been made to make the text book take the place of the teacher. Failure of our systems of penmanship may be attributed directly to the unpedagogic application of the texts, the teacher feeling that the text is the great work to be accomplished. The writing to be successfully taught must be rationally applied to all of the written work of the school room in such a manner that a natural way of writing is produced. Our writing should be the result of general development in all written subjects rather than wholly a drill in the writing period, the effect of which does not carry over into the written matter of other subjects. This general principle applies to all subjects, but our weakness as teachers in this subject is more apparent because it is a matter of form.

A new text book in spelling has been adopted. It is a work of concrete investigation of the material of English spelling by W. Franklin Jones, Ph. D. of the University of South Dakota, and consists of carefully graded lessons of words selected with due care as to the vocabulary which the child uses in school and after his school life. One great mistake in the teaching of spelling has been the lack of a standard as to what words should be chosen for spelling in the various grades. Too many of the words chosen by the teachers have been meaningless to the child and, hence, the effort made in acquiring them has been all out of proportion to the value of the product. As the written expression upon any subject by a child is usually three or four years behind the oral expression of the same subject, the child will not use the large words in his writings altho he has been taught to spell them.

The difficult words which the child uses are incorporated in this manual which was produced after the examination of many thousands of themes written by children with a view to teach the child how to spell all the words which he is ever likely to use. Such a vocabulary is sufficiently broad to cover the requirements of the average person and includes all the so called close words. There is space in the book for the addition of words which are local in character. The work has the endorsement of leading educators and our State Superintendent.

The office system which was devised by my predecessor is being kept up and is open to inspection at all times. A miniature photo of each child in the district has been added to his individual record card which enables instant identification of the child whose name appears upon the card. This was done without expense to the district.

Teachers' meetings of the entire force of the district have been held monthly at Portsmouth.

The lighting arrangements of all school houses is apparently bad. I am working upon a scheme which will soften the glare of the cross lights which I hope will prove worthy of adoption by you.

I have no other suggestions to make other than those that I may take up directly with you. I wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation for many courtesies extended to me by the Board and your hearty co-operation.

Respectfully submitted
